SOLDIERS ESCORT NEGROES TO SCHOOL

RED CROSS IN ACTION — One of the essential programs of the local Red Cross chapter is the collection of blood. The Red Cross operates the Bloodmobile which calls on Circleville eight times a year. Red Cross Offers Services Throughout Entire County

This is the second of a series of stories on the five community fund agencies. Today's article deals with the Red Cross here.

Four major fields of services are handled locally by the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross. They are the home service program, water safety program, blood program and first aid program.

This year's Red Cross share of the local Community Fund budget is about 52 per cent—or $14,751 to maintain these vital services for the next year.

According to Mrs. Charles Mowery, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Chapter, the local activities of the Red Cross were extensive during the year ending June 30, 1957.

During the year the chapter gave the following services under the home service program: 123 verifications of leave or extension of leave for service personnel; 113 reports for the veterans Administration, servicemen and veterans' families; assisted in obtaining compensation, pension, insurance or allotments, 14; assisted in 40 loans and grants cases, and offered counseling in 157 cases of family and personal difficulty.

The water safety program was extensive. About 450 children and 95 adults enrolled in the Pickaway County water safety program. The chapter sent four persons to the safety instructor school at Ohio State University.

THE LOCAL CHAPTER was instrumental in collecting 529 pints of blood here for the blood bank program. There are eight scheduled visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile here each year.

About 50 adults took the first aid course to date this year and there are now 22 qualified first aid instructors in the county.

These services are just part of the overall worth of the local Red Cross chapter. The fact that the local chapter is connected with the national organization gives Pickaway County citizens broad worldwide background and untold resources in event of a major disaster—flood, tornado, fire or epidemic.

In the event of any grave crisis, in the community, family or personally, the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross stands ready, willing and able to help.

Asian Flu Feared; 600 Pupils Felled

COLUMBUS (AP)—Nearly 600 students in three Lucas County schools have come down with an illness that may be Asian Flu, Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, disclosed today.

He said 580 students became ill last week. The three schools, which he did not identify, have a total enrollment of 1,200.

The Ohio Department of Health laboratories today began testing 20 specimens taken from students in Lucas County, Sandusky and Akron. Dr. Dwork said testing of the 12 throat washings and 8 blood samples will take three days.

Tuesday Dr. Dwork reported that Asian Flu has been confirmed in Sandusky where one case was positively identified and about 180 other students had an illness similar to Asian Flu. That school has 800 students and was identified in Sandusky as the Perkins School. Dr. Dwork said today that there is some evidence that some members of the school staff became ill with influenza.

He added the influenza outbreak in Sandusky came after a student visited New York state. Three other children in the same family then became ill.

Dr. Dwork pointed out the attack rate in Lucas County is higher than in Sandusky and said the "clinical picture" is the same in both areas, although Asian Flu has not been confirmed in Lucas County.

The department is watching both Lucas County and Sandusky closely to determine the pattern of the illness in Ohio. It wants to find out whether the influenza spreads to adult members of families.

Tuesday, the Influenza Advisory Board to the Ohio Department of Health held its first meeting with Dr. Dwork.

The committee recommended the general public be urged to take advantage of Asian Flu vaccine when it is available. The state by mid-September had been allocated 194,500 shots of vaccine, but Dr. Dwork said there is no way of telling how much actually has arrived in Ohio.

Vaccine will be allocated throughout the state on a voluntary basis and the committee adopted a priority setup previously announced by Dr. Dwork.

The committee recommended the priorities be followed unless a change in the Asian Flu picture suggested shifting them.

So far, Ohio has had only four confirmed cases of Asian Flu. Three of these occurred a number of weeks ago.

Comment on Troop Action:

South Slaps Ike, North Backs Him

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most Southern officials hit hard at President Eisenhower's decision to use federal troops to enforce school integration in Little Rock while Northerners backed his action as necessary to preserve law and order.

"Federal force must be used in this situation to put down force," said Adlai Stevenson, twice beaten by Eisenhower for the presidency. Stevenson termed the Little Rock situation a disaster.

But he said the President had no choice. He said Gov. Orval Faubus behaved irresponsibly in using the Arkansas National Guard to thwart integration.

A Southern governor, A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, agreed that Eisenhower had no choice. Chandler, an avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 said, "We can't have anarchy and mob rule."

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-S.C.) talked of armed resistance.

"If I were governor and he (the President) came in, I'd give him a fight such as he has never been in before."

"I'D PROCLAIM a state of insurrection and I'd call out the National Guard and then we'd find out who's going to run things in my state."

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York said the President had "contributed to the making of the present situation" in Little Rock by not taking strong action at the outset of the school crisis.

"Any trouble we have from now on can be laid at the door of the President's complacency and policy of appeasement of Gov. Faubus while this crisis was developing," the New York Democrat added.

"This sort of totalitarian rule may put Negro children into the white schools of Little Rock, but it will have a calamitous effect on race relations and the cause of national unity," Sen. Russell D-GA declared.

Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland defended Eisenhower's action as necessary and he was joined by Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia. Both are Republicans.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) agreed with Russell that the action was "without authority of law." He said, "It may precipitate more trouble than it will prevent."

Governors Marvin Griffin of Georgia and James Folsom of Alabama called the action political. Griffin charged that Eisenhower "is a captive of the Republican political strategists, who are more interested in the minority Negro vote than the welfare of the people."

2 Arkansas Men Injured By Military

Paratroopers Armed With Rifles, Bayonets To Force Integration

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Hard-eyed paratroopers, in battle dress and with bayonets at the ready, brought nine Negro students into Central High School today in a new climax to the struggle over integration in Little Rock.

One man was clubbed and another stabbed in the arm by the soldiers who were on guard.

A few white students left the school after the Negroes entered, but there was no mass exodus. A school official said 1,250 students were in class today, making 750 absentees. It was 50 more than Tuesday when it was known the Negroes would not appear.

In an arc, two blocks wide, around the high school, the paratroopers kept breaking up clusters of people, moving them back, herding them onto porches, and keeping the area clear.

They moved with swift, purposeful actions.

IT WAS IN these operations that the two men were injured. C. E. Blake, 46, a railroad employee, tried to grab a paratrooper's rifle, soldiers said. The trooper, quickly reversing it, struck Blake over the eye with the butt. He fell to the street but did not appear to be seriously injured.

Paul Downs, of Springfield, Ark. got a bayonet cut in the arm apparently when he was too slow in obeying an order.

Jess Matthews, principal of the school, reported "Everything is calm inside the school and education is proceeding normally."

It was supremely quiet. But the story is by no means ended. Over and over was heard this comment:

"Let 'em do what they want now."

"But they can't keep those soldiers here indefinitely and the minute they're gone, you'll see—"

The Negro students arrived at the school in an Army station wagon driven by a soldier.

As newsmen and photographers swarmed toward the Army station wagon, paratroopers lining the street kept barking, "Back on the sidewalk! Stay back on the sidewalk!"

Inside the school, Gen. Edwin A. Walker, commander of the troops, told the students: "I intend to use all means necessary to prevent any interference with the execution of the school board's plan" for integration.

He told the white students "you have nothing to fear from the soldiers" but added "this is what I have been ordered to do, and I intend to carry out my orders."

REPORT TO THE NATION — Deeply concerned, President Eisenhower walks down the ramp of his plane after it brought him from Newport to Washington to address the nation on the integration crisis in Little Rock.

Europe Is Told Of Little Rock

Compliments Are Nil For U.S. Race Fuss

LONDON (AP)—The Little Rock integration story was front page news under big headlines in European newspapers today.

A Moscow newspaper, Soviet Russia, said "Little Rock disclosed the true face of democracy in America."

The Communist youth paper, Komsomol Pravda, gave more than two front page columns to a report of what it called "terrible deeds of white racists" and said these followed "so many beautiful words about freedom of the people in America." It added that American desegregation problems were developing at a time when U.S. representatives in the United Nations were complaining about an alleged lack of civil liberties in East European countries.

In Paris, a band of men scrawled the words "Vive Faubus" (Long live Faubus) across the walls of the U. S. Embassy. The reference was to Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus.

U. S. PRESTIGE and popularity was believed to be taking its sharpest nose dive in France since the Suez crisis.

The non-Communist, leftwing France-Tireur charged that President Eisenhower has seen "his authority overthrown and the law made an object of derision."

The extreme rightwing Aurore commented: "A Lincoln, a Roosevelt or a Truman would never have tolerated it. Eisenhower no longer permits it."

Phone Dispute Talks Delayed By Company

CLEVELAND (AP)—Contract negotiations between Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and the striking Communications Workers of America were recessed this morning after the company rejected one union proposal and took another under advisement.

Ohio Bell requested time to study the latest union offer and the meeting was recessed after about 45 minutes. Another meeting was scheduled for 10 a. m. Thursday unless the company wants to meet sooner, the union said.

The company stood firm on its offer of a 15-month contract with weekly pay raises of $2.50 to $5 or a one-year contract with raises of $2 to $4.50 weekly, a Bell spokesman said.

The new union proposals, which were not made public, concern wages and hours, the company said.

Some 18,500 employees struck Ohio Bell nine days ago. Mass picketing was reported in two Cleveland suburbs today. At Lakewood, eggs were thrown as supervisors crossed a massed picket line.

Police were needed at Solon to clear a driveway for construction workers at a Western Electric Co. warehouse. The construction workers decided not to enter the warehouse after police cleared pickets from the driveway.

Portsmouth Woman Critically Hurt

A Portsmouth woman was in critical condition in Berger Hospital today following a deadly two-car collision at Routes 56 and 104 just outside Circleville at about 2:15 p. m.

Listed in critical condition at the hospital is Florence Horton, Portsmouth. She was a passenger in a car, traveling on Route 56, driven by Ora Chandler, Portsmouth. Chandler is listed as in serious condition.

Chandler's car collided with a truck driven by Addison Spangler, 50, Route 2, Amanda, who was driving north on Route 104. A passenger in the truck, Russell Campbell, Amanda, also was hurt.

Sheriff's deputy Dwight Radcliff reported the car apparently went through a stop sign at the intersection.

Weather Outlook Remains Good Here

The weather outlook here for the next 24 hours is generally fair and pleasant the weatherman said today.

Sunny skies and cool air has prevailed here since Sunday, making the weather picture a good one. This pleasant outlook comes on the heels of last week's much needed rains, giving the area near perfect weather conditions so far this week.

The mercury reached a high of 71 yesterday afternoon, dropping to a low of 45 last night. Tonight's low is expected to be about 50, with a high of 80 predicted tomorrow.

Flat Cracks 34-Year Mark

After almost 34 years, the Circleville Fire Department finally was faced with a flat tire on one of its trucks yesterday.

Chief Talmer Wise said it is the first time in his 34 years with the department that a tire had gone flat. The record was broken when an inside dual on the city's new truck lost its air.

Fortunately the flat happened while the truck was parked inside the firehouse. Chief Wise said the difficulty was caused by a defective tube. Everything is shipshape today after firemen replaced the old tube.

Ike Says He Ordered Out Soldiers To End 'Mob Rule' in Little Rock

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says he ordered federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., because "mob rule cannot be allowed to override the decisions of the court."

In a hastily scheduled radio-TV address to the nation, he appealed to the American people Tuesday night to unite in understanding that he had no choice but to dispatch the troops.

"Unless the President did so," he declared, "anarchy would result."

And he emphasized that the troops are there "solely for the purpose of preventing interference with the orders of the court" which directed the admission of nine Negroes to Little Rock's Central High School.

Eisenhower said he personally knows that "the overwhelming majority of the people in the South—including those of Arkansas and Little Rock—are of good will, united in their efforts to preserve and respect the law even when they disagree with it."

But he said at another point that "certain misguided persons, many of them imported into Little Rock by agitators, have insisted upon defying the law and have sought to bring it into dispute."

In other nations, he said, "our enemies are gloating over this incident" and seeking to undermine the nation's prestige and influence around the globe.

He told why he flew from his Newport, R.I., vacation headquarters to the White House — "the house of Lincoln, of Jackson, and of Wilson"—to explain the action.

"I felt that... my words would more clearly convey both the sadness I feel in the action I was compelled today to take and the firmness with which I intend to pursue this course until the orders of the federal court at Little Rock can be executed without unlawful interference."

Eisenhower deplored the beatings and riots Monday, and the lack of sufficient action by local and state authorities to prevent them.

Gone was the Eisenhower who told a news conference last July 17 he could not imagine any circumstances requiring federal troops to enforce a court order because "common sense of America will never require it."

The Communist press wasted no time in affirming his reference to gloating enemies. In cartoons and editorials, Rome's L'Unita and Paris' L'Humanite raked Eisenhower with the same line: he acted with "too little too late."

Criticisms came from elsewhere in the political spectrum of the foreign press. And reaction was not slow among leading political figures in the United States, although it varied from praise to protest.

Eisenhower started slowly in the address from his oval-shaped office at the White House.

Picking up heat, gesturing with his spectacles, he argued his case: "It is important that reasons for my action be understood by all our citizens...."

"Our personal opinions about the (Supreme Court's school integration) decision have no bearing on the matter of enforcement...."

"We are a nation in which laws, not men, are supreme...."

"Both the law and the national interest demanded that the President take action...."

"The very basis of our individual rights and freedoms rests upon the certainty that the President and the executive branch of government will support and insure the carrying out of the decisions of the federal courts, even, when necessary, with all the means at the President's command."

"Unless the President did so, anarchy would result."

"There would be no security for any except that which each one of us could provide for himself...."

The troops are in Little Rock, the President said, not to relieve authorities of their tasks there but "solely for the purpose of preventing interference with the orders of the court."

Once resistance to the federal court ceases, the troops will be recalled, he said, and then: "The city of Little Rock will return to its normal habits of peace and order and a blot upon the fair name and high honor of our nation in the world will be removed."

The safety of America and of the free world it leads already is badly damaged, Eisenhower said, because: "Our enemies are gloating over this incident and using it everywhere to misrepresent our nation. We are portrayed as a violator of those standards of conduct which the peoples of the world united to proclaim in the charter of the United Nations."

Convicts Kept on Payroll?

Hoffa Indicted;
Lied to U. S. Jury

NEW YORK (AP)—James R. Hoffa, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, was indicted today on five counts of perjury by a federal racket grand jury.

The indictment charged that the 44-year-old union leader, a candidate for the presidency of the Teamsters to succeed Dave Beck, lied to the grand jury, during its probe into wiretapping of Teamsters headquarters in Detroit.

The grand jury also indicted Benjamin Franklin Collins, secretary-treasurer of Local 299, which is headed by Hoffa. It accused him of 12 counts of perjury in connection with the same investigation. Meanwhile, in Washington, Senate racketeers probes called for testimony that Hoffa kept on the payroll some Teamster officials.

The story, as related by committee aides, involved Teamster Local 614 at Pontiac, Mich., which they said Hoffa took over as trustee.

Details of a Teamsters Union loan to a Minneapolis department store and of Hoffa's own interest in a horse race betting partnership were other scheduled subjects of testimony as the special Senate committee continued its probe into activities of the Midwest Teamsters boss.

Hoffa has testified he draws ion payroll some Teamster officials $5,000 to $10,000 a year from betting on horse races in partnership with Owen Brennan, a Detroit Teamster official. Brennan has been summoned as a witness.

COMMITTEE Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) announced he has arranged for an independent doctor to check on what was tentatively diagnosed as a heart attack suffered by Benjamin Dranow. Dranow heads the John W. Thomas department store in Minneapolis, which allegedly received a million-dollar loan of Teamster funds from Hoffa to help it ride out and recover from a strike by the Retail Clerks Union.

In Miami Beach, Fla., where he is campaigning for the union's international presidency, Hoffa described the loan as a perfectly legitimate investment of pension funds.

Kennedy said he would explore no further into loans aggregating some $25,000 obtained by Hoffa in 1952 from subordinate Detroit Teamster business agents.

The committee heard four Detroit business agents testify Tuesday they had loaned Hoffa $6,000 in 1952, without interest or security, and that he did not pay them back until last week—after they had been subpoenaed to testify.

The testimony came from Herman Kierdorf, James Clift, William Bell and Frank Fitzsimmons, Teamster business agents.

Kennedy said he was dropping this phase of inquiry because "the point is made." He said staff investigators have learned that Hoffa paid back about $25,000 to 11 business agents last week after selling some bonds to raise the money.

Kierdorf testified that he owed his job to Hoffa, and had loaned Hoffa $2,000 he had saved up to finance a trip to Florida with Mrs. Kierdorf. Kierdorf said he called off the trip as a result. He said he was fresh out of the Ohio Penitentiary, after serving a term on armed robbery charges, when Hoffa gave him the job in 1948.

by the paratroopers said nothing. Monday they screamed, cursed and fought.

Later the school said six Negro boys and three girls entered the building to attend classes they've been trying to enter since Sept. 3.

The nine Negro students originally had been enrolled in an all-Negro school. Some 200 Negro high school students live in the Central High School district where the school board screened applicants and approved 10 for admission to the school as part of a limited integration plan.

Earlier today, the tough paratroopers pointed stubby bayonets at clusters of white men and women to keep a crowd from congregating at the school before Negro students arrived.

The military action, ordered by President Eisenhower through the Army, was the most drastic ever taken to back up federal court racial integration orders.

The first troops rolled through Little Rock at dusk Tuesday after flying from Ft. Campbell, Ky. They were units of the famous and rugged 101st Airborne Division. Some of them are Negroes.

Big carrier planes kept arriving until 1,000 soldiers had been brought in.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, Arkansas National Guard commander, ordered the Guard to "mobilize immediately."

IN PLACING the National Guard under U. S. Army command Eisenhower took it from the control of Gov. Orval Faubus, who had used Guardsmen to stop Negroes from entering the school Sept. 2.

The President, saying he acted with sadness but expressing determination to be firm, declared that "mob rule" menaced the very safety of the United States and the free world.

This referred to the crowds which surged out of control Monday, attacking police and four adult Negroes. Nine Negro students slipped into the school. They were taken out shortly afterward when the mob became riotous.

Eisenhower said his only purpose is to prevent further interference with Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies' order that Negroes be admitted to the school.

Reaction was mixed in Arkansas. Generally, the feeling was that something had to be done, but most persons indicated they felt the federal government was forcing integration on a city which didn't want it.

Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon, acting governor until mid-afternoon when Faubus returned to the state after attending the Southern Governors' Conference at Sea Island, Ga., said: "I don't like it. Sending troops in here won't help the situation in the long run. I wonder if they are going to put a soldier with each student."

COMMANDING the federalized Guard and the regulars is Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, described as a "soldier's soldier."

The Guardsmen will be under Army discipline and will have all regular Army benefits while in federal service.

Eisenhower's action in federalizing the Guard presumably was to erase almost all chances of a clash between federal and state troops. Actions of Guard officers indicated there would be no opposition to regular Army orders.

Rumors Mounting U.S. To Fire Big Missile

CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Speculation mounted today that the Air Force is poised to fire its Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile from here.

Technicians and engineers from the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp. and the General Electric Co. have been arriving since Sunday.

Both companies are interested primarily in the huge missile which is designed to rocket 600 miles into the sky at a speed of 13,000 miles per hour.

Earlier reports from the Azores that an American vessel was bringing in 40 survivors of the hurricane battered bark were called erroneous.

Two New Laws To Benefit Some Pickaway Countians

Two new veterans laws which were passed by Congress during its recent session may, according to Jim Shea, county veteran's service officer, affect a number of area veterans or beneficiaries of deceased veterans.

Under the new laws, a widow of a deceased veteran may be eligible for a death pension or compensation if she was married to the veteran for five years before his death, or married to him for any length of time if a child was born of the marriage.

Under the former law a widow had to be married to the veteran for a 10-year period prior to his death to be eligible for benefits.

According to Shea, a number of death benefit claims by widows in the county have been disallowed previously because the widow was not married to the veteran for the required 10 year period.

Shea says that he will make a search of his records to find cases where widows may now be eligible for benefits. He urges that any widow who may be affected by the new law, to make contact with his office as soon as possible.

ANOTHER NEW LAW, according to Shea, will increase compensation for all service-connected disabilities by 10 per cent. Compensation for dependents of veterans who are more than 50 per cent disabled have also been increased.

This new law will go into effect Oct. 1. The new compensation rates will be included in checks received November 1 for the October period.

This new law will go into effect Oct. 1. The new compensation rates will be included in checks received November 1 for the October period.

Under the former law a widow had to be married to the veteran for a 10-year period prior to his death to be eligible for benefits.

According to Shea, a number of death benefit claims by widows in the county have been disallowed previously because the widow was not married to the veteran for the required 10 year period.

Shea says that he will make a search of his records to find cases where widows may now be eligible for benefits. He urges that any widow who may be affected by the new law, to make contact with his office as soon as possible.

ANOTHER NEW LAW, according to Shea, will increase compensation for all service-connected disabilities by 10 per cent. Compensation for dependents of veterans who are more than 50 per cent disabled have also been increased.

10 Fliers Involved
In Mishaps While on
Giant NATO Maneuver

LONDON (AP)—The U. S. Navy reported today that four of its planes, carrying 10 men, were missing and are feared to have crashed in the North Atlantic while taking part in giant NATO sea exercises.

The Navy identified the planes as two F4-D Skywarriors, single speeds of more than 1,000 miles an hour, and two F-2F antisuubmarine planes each carrying four men.

A Navy spokesman said the antisuubmarine planes were based on the 33,100-ton carrier Essex. He said he did not know to which carrier the Skywarriors belong.

The carriers are part of a seven-ship NATO fleet taking part in exercise "Strikeback," designed to keep the Atlantic Ocean open against Russian attack, especially from submarines.

The exercises were immediately suspended and ships and planes were ordered to search for the missing planes and possible survivors.

WICK RADIO in Scotland said it had picked up reports that two planes crashed 100 miles north-west of the Lofoten Islands off the west coast of Norway. It gave no other details.

The Navy spokesman in London said it was feared that the two Skywarriors may have collided while carrying out a sortie.

He said the two antisuubmarine planes were overdue at 8:45 p. m. (EST) Tuesday and had only enough fuel to last them until 10:30 p. m.

The NATO exercise is pitting a "Blue" striking force against an "Orange" fleet of submarines in the North Atlantic between Iceland and Norway.

The Blue force is supposed to be attacking land targets in Northern Europe with carrier-based planes and guided missiles.

Ike Doffs His Homburg Hat, Puts On His Garrison Cap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower has doffed his homburg hat and put on again General Ike's garrison cap.

But this doesn't necessarily mean he's going to make Little Rock, Ark., a beachhead for the U. S. Marines, drop the U. S. 82nd Armored Division and the U. S. First Infantry Division.

A lot of people in those outfits come from Arkansas.

But the President's angry reactions to events in that troubled state do sternly imply he is ready, willing and able to assume a role more aggressive than any he has assumed since he was victorious commander of the Western allied forces against Germany.

This is a man who commanded millions of men in a war against an outside enemy, and was most effective in creating unity to win that war. He has been stirred to anger, never to panic.

A man who has been a victorious general and is presently commander in chief of the armed forces of the United States cannot indefinitely sit idly by when his chain of command is challenged. Nor can a corporal.

Thus President Eisenhower, the statesman-politician, might want to look the other way when a state governor calls out the National Guard on a controversial day, but General Eisenhower, both as soldier and President, is by oath committed to the federal duty.

Ike, the golfing president, became again the general, when he issued a statement — which, to those who knew Eisenhower in war, is an order of the day:

"I will use the full power of the United States, including whatever force may be necessary, to prevent any obstruction of the law and to carry out the orders of the federal court."

To those who think of Eisenhower as a compliant President, it may be pertinent to point out that the foregoing statement is the promise of a general, not unaccustomed to violence, not unused to challenge, not strange to trial, not foreign to victory.

"I will use the full power of the United States," he said, "including whatever force may be necessary, to prevent any obstruction of the law and to carry out the orders of the federal court."

This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, President of the United States, speaking.

The commander-in-chief, explaining to the nation Monday night why he ordered federal troops to Little Rock, said "mob rule" there menaced the safety of the United States and the rest of the free world.

In a TV-radio broadcast from the White House, he solemnly called upon citizens of Arkansas to help bring an end to all interference with legal processes. "Mob rule cannot be allowed to override the decisions of the courts," he declared.

The President pledged:

"If resistance to the federal court orders ceases at once, the further presence of federal troops will be unnecessary..."

He said the safety of the United States and the free world had been menaced because "floating" communists abroad were using the school integration riots to misrepresent this country and undermine its prestige and influence around the globe.

Columbus Zoo Honored For Birth of Gorilla

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Columbus, Ohio, Zoo has been given the first annual Edward H. Bean Award for rare birth of a zoo animal in North America.

The citation was given to Earl F. Davis, Columbus Zoo director, by the American Assn. of Zoological Parks and Aquariums, for the birth of Cola, a female gorilla now 9 months old.

Davis reported that attendance at the Columbus Zoo has tripled since birth of the gorilla, more than offsetting the $11,000 spent for special care.

Little Cars, Fewer Accidents

There's an interesting aspect of the invasion of foreign small cars that has nothing to do with their recent increase in numbers. Although the small foreign puddle jumpers are now visible everywhere they rarely figure in accidents with larger cars. Or at any rate that seems to be the case. How often is it recorded that one of the midget two-lungers from Germany or France has collided with a truck or bus? The apparent infrequency of accidents involving small cars could be ascribed to the fact that they are relatively few in comparison to the total vehicle population. If that's the explanation the accident situation could change in the years ahead. This year's estimated imports of 200,000 foreign cars are double last year's. Imports may top 400,000 a year by 1960 or 1961. In that event American manufacturers would get into the field and accidents involving small cars would reflect their increasing numbers. Unquestionably, the drivers of small cars are keenly and constantly aware of their disadvantage in the event of collisions with larger cars and are therefore driving with particular care.

Night Club Is Home to Him

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—The thing that beats most people in this world, said Joe E. Lewis, is "not being themselves." "When you aren't yourself, you're in trouble—real trouble." Lewis, a man beloved for his vices as much as his virtues (in any case, they're identical), is celebrating his 35th year in show business—and has never bothered to pretend to be anything except what he is. "I know too many guys who ruined themselves by trying not to be themselves. If a man can't be himself, who can he be?" At 55 Joe, whose quips earn him from $250,000 to $400,000 a year, is the acknowledged king of the night club circuit, rivaled in durability only by Jimmy Durante and Sophie Tucker. "A guy can't go on forever telling jokes and getting tight," he remarked cheerfully. "Already I can see the handwriting on the floor." "I've never had any frustrations. I've never been to see a psychiatrist, but a lot of them come to see me."

never tire of tales of his prowess with the bottle or his uncanny ability to bet large sums of money on horses that never come in first. A symbol of his first hobby stands on the coffee table in his hotel suite here. It is a "boozie bush," a plant whose green branches are tastefully decorated with 25 small bottles of liquor. Actually, although Joe likes to say his favorite foods are scotch, steak and cole slaw, his drinking feats are exaggerated. Asked what his favorite hangover remedy, he said seriously: "Some people drink to forget. I drink to remember. After a couple of drinks I do remember better." Lewis was born on the Lower East Side, just around the corner from the neighborhood that produced Irving Berlin, Eddie Cantor and Al Smith. "I've done an awful lot for Irving Berlin," he said. "In all my years in show business I never sang one of his songs. If I ever write a song, I hope he'll do the same for me. He can't sing either."

Some people go to night clubs as an escape. But to Joe, a man at peace with himself, a night club is a home. "I'm happy and feel contented in them. With me it's not a matter of being lonely or carrying a torch." Joe, who said he doesn't believe in living by rules, because "there are no rules," has a simple suggestion for keeping in shape. "Run up and down a race track until you don't have a superfluous ounce of cash on you." Doesn't he ever secretly envy the ordinary man who works daylight hours and goes home at night to a wife and three kids in a happy home in the suburbs? A look of horror spread over Joe's face. "I'm a gambler, not a lunatic," he replied. Here are the three basic tenets of Joe E. Lewis' philosophy for happiness: "Never spend more than three seconds every day on regret. 'You're only young once, but if you work it right, once is enough.' "When things look black, send them to the laundry." Two years ago Joe underwent an operation for the removal of most of his stomach, and now every morning when he wakes up, his first grateful thought is: "Gee, I made it again."

The World Today

By James Marlow

By ED CREGH For James Marlow Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—He was not the stern old soldier. He was no towering figure of wrath. Dwight D. Eisenhower was a troubled, reluctant man as he addressed the nation Tuesday night. He spoke at the outset of his sadness over the action he had just taken. He voiced deep confidence the whole unpleasantness would be over quickly. But in the meantime: The President served notice that troops under federal authority will be stationed in Little Rock, Ark., until law and order have been restored—until "agitators" and their followers stop trying to keep a handful of Negro children from attending a white school. Soberly, like a father chiding an errant son, Eisenhower addressed himself to the mob and the whole populace of Little Rock and Arkansas. He told them the eyes of the world were upon them. And he must have known that the world's eyes were on him too. Eisenhower was on trial as never before in his presidency. He is a man who strives always for harmony. He made his reputation in war and peace as one who smooths out difficulties. But on this issue he couldn't please everybody. Whatever his course, he would be damned if he did and damned if he didn't. Suppose he let matters drift farther in Little Rock. He'd have been accused—as he already has been—of golfing while Rome burned. Said Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), after Eisenhower called out the troops: "It's damn near time he took some positive action." On the other hand, after Eisenhower took the most positive action in his power, the uproar from many elements in the South was tremendous. Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC) came out for virtual war in his state if the same situation should occur there—as it very well may. Johnston, a former governor was all for calling out the National Guard (under state control, that is) and fighting it out. What Southerners say Northerners don't understand—among other things—is this: "Federal," especially when used in connection with "troops," is all but a dirty word in most regions south of the Mason-Dixon Line. Yankees may have forgotten Reconstruction days, but the Southern memory hasn't. For 10 bitter years most of the South was under Northern military rule: Untrained Negroes and Northern carpetbaggers ran what amounted to an occupied territory. To this ugly aftermath of the 1861-65 war much of the South's current temper can be traced. Eisenhower knows the South's mood. He knows the risks involved in using federal troops. Only a few months ago he said he couldn't imagine a circumstance that would cause him to enforce a segregation-order with troops. But he found such a circumstance in the violence that flared around Little Rock's Central High School Monday. Did he act rightly? Soon enough? Too soon? Could local authorities have rounded up the "agitators," and made outside force unnecessary, as they had started to do when the troops were flown in? Eisenhower will be second-guessed from Natchez to Harlem for his decision—one that is bound to influence the course of integration in the South. His watchword has been "patience"—until Little Rock. Now it is "obey the law." Only time will tell how ready the South is to listen, and how many troops may be called out in the meantime.

Mankind Split in Fragments

By George Sokolsky

One of the effects of the upsurge of nationalism throughout the world is that the human race is being broken into fragments which are constantly becoming smaller. The end of this process is not in sight. One of the immediate and disastrous effects of intensive nationalism is the stimulation of nationalistic and racial hatred. For instance, the Malayan Federation could not include Singapore, which is the most important city of Malaya, because Singapore is at least three-quarters Chinese. The Chinese of Singapore, like all Chinese anywhere, are divided into three essential groups, the supporters of Chiang Kai-shek, the supporters of the Chinese Communists, and those who still believe that a "third force" could develop on the mainland of China. These groups hate each other, fight constantly and intrigue for domination. But in Singapore they might combine against the Malays and the British. Similarly on the island of Cyprus, nationalism is developing an increasingly unpleasant situation. One might say that a Cypriot is a person who comes from Cyprus, which is 40 miles from Turkey and 600 miles from Greece. But that is strikingly oversimplified. A Cypriot may regard himself as a Greek or a Turk, depending upon which language he speaks or which church he attends. Racially, he may descend from anywhere or any race, from the Hittites to the Greeks, to the Egyptians, to the Crusaders from northern Europe. But today the Greek-speaking Cypriot has been stirred up to believe that it is his destiny to belong to Greece, and the Turkish-speaking Cypriot believes that he must belong to Turkey, and over this island, which is no longer strategically important because of the airplane, could come a war involving the entire human race. Such great land empires as Soviet Russia, Red China, and India comprise many races and nationalities and varieties of languages and these are beginning to assert themselves in varying degrees of autonomy. For instance, the Communist state of Kerala in India is composed of layers of differing peoples who are unlike other peoples of India and who found in Communism self-expression which if it spreads throughout southern India could cause havoc in that country. Arab nationalism, according to the Arabs, is something that has always existed, which cannot be so because the Arabs have not always existed as a separate and distinct nation. Is Egypt an Arab country? Look at the history of Egypt from the Hyksos to the present day and see what a mixture of peoples have lived in, conquered or been conquered in that country. Who were the Macedonians who set up Ptolemaic Egypt? Were they Greeks? Were they tamed Celts who also once lived in Macedonia? If they were Greeks, what kind of Greeks were they, for there were many kinds of Greeks from the ancient Minoans to the rugged Spartans? If you like arguments of this kind, you can spend a lifetime on this subject. Or if you have the time, you can wax most enthusiastic trying to explain how an Illyrian becomes an Albanian and a Moslem Albanian a satellite of the atheistic Kremlin. Even in the United States, the racial problem as between whites and Negroes, as between whites and Mexicans, as between whites and Puerto Ricans intensifies each year and is now, in some stages, climactic. The rule that all men are equal raises the question as to what is meant by all men and what is meant by equal. In fact, to deal with this problem the White House tried to turn the FBI into a national police force which would have been a national calamity were not J. Edgar Hoover alert to the danger of unconstitutional means to achieve constitutional ends. And because we are of such a variety of origins, we have brought into our lives all the quarrels and disagreements and over-emphasis of Europe, Asia and Africa to say nothing of our own smaller and only justifiable minority, the wards of the nation, the American Indian. And so we have reached that stage in civilization when we must ask who is better than whom and how long were your ancestors civilized before mine were—which is an absolutely and conclusively silly question because mine were the first to be civilized and if you don't believe it read the Book of Genesis which says so. So there!

Easy Sound Test for Child

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D. Hearing difficulties in an infant may be indicated if he consistently pays no attention to the tinkling of a spoon being tapped against his feeding bottle, the sound of his name being spoken, or to every-day street noises such as fire sirens, auto backfiring and barking dogs. In older children in the school-age and preschool-age brackets, there are various simple tests you can conduct right in your own home to determine to some extent whether your youngster has any trouble with his hearing. Clicking two coins together, using the ticking of a watch, whispering, or speaking in normal tones might give you some indication of the degree of difficulty with hearing. First, test these various sounds on a person with normal hearing ability. Then, try them on your child. If he can hear these sounds at only one-third the distance a child with normal hearing can, it might be an indication that his hearing loss is significant. If, however, he hears it at half the distance, the loss of hearing probably is not significant. But this doesn't mean you can forget about it. Quite the contrary, if any loss of hearing is even suspected, a hearing specialist should be consulted right away. In a great many cases, medical treatment following early discovery of hearing loss will clear up the difficulty entirely. Another test for older children is the number test. Have the youngster stand some distance from you with the left side of his head toward you. He should cover his right ear with the palm of his hand. Then have him repeat numbers after you. Next, with his right ear turned toward you and his left ear covered, repeat the procedure. This should give you some indication whether his hearing ability is the same in both ears. All such tests, however, are makeshift and serve only to bring to light a suspicion of hearing trouble. Once you suspect difficulty, have the child examined by a competent medical man. By using such instruments as an audiometer, he can measure precisely how much hearing is lost and how much remains at various tone levels. You know how dangerous it can be to ignore appendicitis. Don't ignore signs of hearing difficulties, either. Deafness might be the result. Question and Answer J. A.: Is vitamin B12 of help in treating osteoarthritis? Answer: Recently it has been shown that, when it is properly used, vitamin B12 in large doses does help certain cases of osteoarthritis. Ohio is an inland state, away from either ocean, yet it is a border state, making boundary with Canada through Lake Erie.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I would like to ask you a question about so-called social drinking. I am a former widow, middle-aged, married of recent years to a man now in his fifties.

All my life I have seen people drink and never have thought it wrong. Both my parents drank lightly, and in my younger years, during my first marriage, I was surrounded by party drinkers. That is, Saturday night and special occasion drinkers—who might go for a week or weeks without a drink.

My present husband is home for lunch; and seven days a week, year in and year out, he takes one or maybe two very strong cocktails before lunch. These I mix myself to his taste, so I know they are strong—two, or three or four ounces of liquor.

Comes 5 o'clock in the afternoon, it is highball time, wherever he may be. On vacation, on a business trip, at home, the liquor is there (or carried there) for a pre-dinner drink or drinks in generous measure.

In several years, I have seen him "high" perhaps four or five times. He rarely drinks after dinner, and to date there has been no problem. However, I find it difficult to understand this type of drinking. It would seem to me that he is unable to stop—and surely this is a form of alcoholism.

John claims it is purely habit, like smoking. What is your opinion? Do you think such drinking is progressive? I've no desire to create a problem where none exists. But I've seen so much of this type of drinking in our part of the country that I would appreciate your views, so that perhaps I will better understand.

V. R.

DEAR V.R.: As I get the pitch of the alcoholic personality, you might say that he (or she) has a constitution that is wired for trouble, in the event it comes in contact with alcoholic drink. Inately, for some reason or other, this person has a predisposition to become addicted to alcoholism, if social drinking is attempted. In his case, alcohol (in almost any amount) plays havoc with the glandular set-up that should function in the service of self-control.

Your present husband's moderately heavy daily drinking is something else. It suggests that he isn't predisposed to alcoholism; but only that he is, as he says, acquired a habit of drinking. He has cultivated a false appetite, and cordially applies himself to satisfying it. This is known as social drinking, which may, or may not, become a serious hazard.

In James Free's book "Just One More" (Coward-McCann), addressed to problem drinkers, Chapter 17 is devoted to a discussion of safe social drinking. To be on the safe side, every social drinker is advised to practice five precautions, to-wit:

1. Accept the fact that alcoholism is a progressive disease that can overtake anybody who drinks, even you.

2. Firmly decide to take any steps necessary to insure that this illness doesn't overtake you.

3. Embrace a specific policy of absolute moderation, with no exceptions, if you wish to play it safe.

4. Set an absolute limit on the number of drinks you will take on any drinking occasion.

5. Establish certain definite nights each week, when you will not drink at all. Schedule your no-alcohol evenings and stick with the schedule.

If a man habitually drinks thirstily, and refuses to consider the above precautions—for any reason or rationalization—Mr. Free sticks his neck out (as he says) and wagers: Either that man is unaware of the risks. Or he already has an obsessive need of alcohol (ingrained by habit). Or he has already lost control, without being ready to admit it.

And if this wager makes you drinking readers mad, well, you've had it, friends, says Mr. Free. Might as well step to the phone right now and put in your call to Alcoholics Anonymous.

Mr. Free is a worldly man, not a parlor theorist. He is head of his own advertising agency, with offices in seven cities. Also he is an avid avocado farmer in Southern California, an oilman in Texas, a sportsman and author of "Training Your Retriever," and—more recently—a Yale-trained lay therapist and consultant on problems of alcoholism. Read his book, to get an evaluation of your husband's drink pattern.

M.H.

Oddest Island of Australia Is Made Entirely of Iron

By ARTHUR SCIOLES
Central Press Association
Correspondent

Sydney, Australia—Off the barren tropical northwest coast of Australia lies the "Isle of Mosques." The island rises 400 feet above Yampi sound and is made up of the highest grade iron ore in the world.

The ore is dug from open cuts, and is found in a high cliff wall, 7,000 feet long, 15 to 100 feet wide, and averaging 350 feet high.

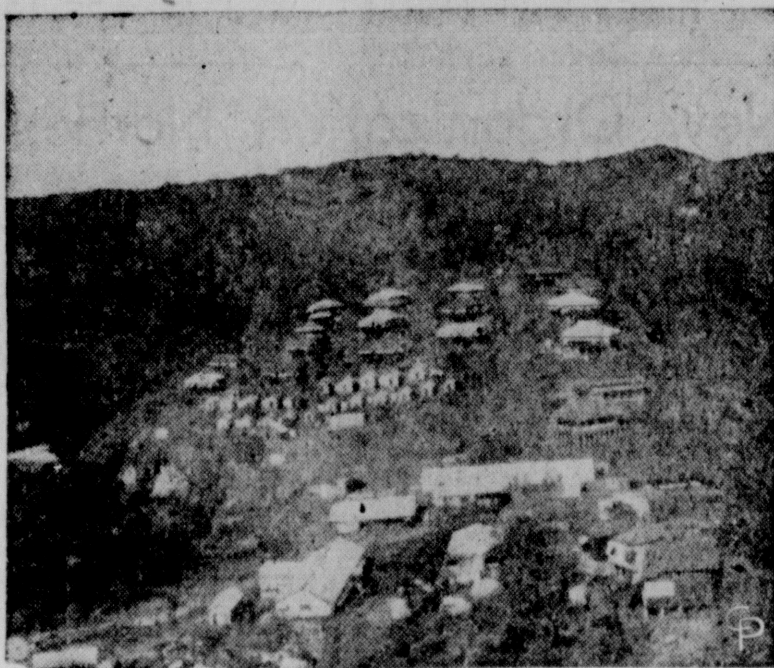

Geographically the island is known as Cockatoo island. It was first sighted by the pirate William Dampier in the middle of the Seventeenth Century. It is in a group which he called Buccaneer archipelago.

Visitors to the island call it the "Isle of Mosques." There are no mosques there, but every time you enter a home, you have to take your boots off.

The island is pest-free, but housewives, proud of their new dwellings, rate heavily booted visitors the only pests.

Every piece of furniture, flooring, in fact every part of the homes was transported to the island 3,000 miles around the Australian coast from Sydney.

The ships carry the iron ore from Yampi sound to the steelworks at Newcastle and Port Kembla, New South Wales. Last year 700,000 tons of iron ore was shipped from the "Isle of Mosques."

SITUATED at approximately 17

degrees south latitude, the lonely islands of the Buccaneer archipelago are remote from the settled areas of Australia.

In 1938 a systematic geological survey was made of the island. Developmental work started but had to be abandoned in 1942 when the Japanese attempted to invade Australia.

It was not till 1945 that construction could be safely commenced. In July, 1951, the first cargo of Yampi ironstone was loaded for shipment to southern steelworks.

TODAY nearly 50 tropical style houses overlook the beautiful sound. Climate is one of the most equable in the world. The place is a paradise for children.

Women shop at a modern store built in the town center by the mining company.

They are proud of their homes, and intend to make them last. That is why they instituted the rule: "Boots off at the front door!"

Few people live healthier or happier lives than the folk on lonely Cockatoo island, whose only link with the outside world is a weekly ferry service to Derby, 90 miles away on the mainland.

Altogether $12 million has been spent on development of the island. Estimated ore reserves total 25 million tons.

Personal Plea

JACKSON, Miss. (P)—A kitchen worker, unloading the weekly food shipment from state penitentiary at the governor's mansion, found a scribbled note.

Addressed to Gov. and Mrs. J. P. Coleman, the note read: "When your heart overflows with mercy, remember me."

It was signed "Lonny Harris, 20227."

Coleman remarked to his wife: "He didn't ask me to remember him when my heart overflows with justice."

NEW YORK (P)—Barrett Division, Allied Chemical & Dye Corp., says it has begun the nation's first commercial production of refined anthracene at its Ironton, Ohio, plant.

Anthracene is an intermediate used for synthetic dyes. It also has been used to process gasoline and to prolong the life of cellulose coatings. Anthracene is made from creosote oils.

U.S. 33 Relocation Hearing Booked

COLUMBUS (P)—The Ohio Highway department announced it will hold a public hearing Oct. 18 in Athens to discuss a proposed three mile relocation of U.S. 33 in the Chauncey area, to eliminate several curves and a grade crossing.

The relocation would begin at the junction of U.S. 33 and 50A, cross the Hocking River twice and rejoin existing U. S. 33 near Ohio 682.

The department has approved relocation of a short section of Ohio 248 in Meigs County following a public hearing in Pomeroy.

It also has approved plans to build a bridge on Ohio 188 over Baldwin's Run in Lancaster.

New Apprenticeship Techniques Ponder

TOLEDO (P)—The seventh annual Ohio Apprenticeship Conference here is studying the problem of developing new techniques and processes in training of apprentices to meet the complex requirements of automated industry.

New Bids Sought On Freeway Section

COLUMBUS (P)—The Ohio Department of Highways today decided to open bids Oct. 29 on a 4.4-mile section of the Cincinnati to Conneaut Freeway in Lake and Ashtabula counties.

The department will open bids Oct. 15 on two other sections of the Freeway, one in Delaware County and the other in Ashland County. The Delaware County project was bid on before, but the department threw out all 11 bids.

Ohio Farmers May See High Price On Corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio farmers will pay a little more for feed corn as a result of a new order by Agriculture Secretary Benson, a Farm Bureau spokesman says.

"However, the price still will be reasonable," he reported. "Furthermore those selling corn will at least be assured of a price floor."

Benson's order established a corn support price for farmers who have not complied with their acreage limitations.

In Ohio, this price varies from $1.12 to $1.19 a bushel in the 71 commercial corn counties.

That means farmers in this category can obtain government loans at those prices on corn if they so desire, a transaction that amounts to a sale in many cases. But the Farm Bureau spokesman said the principal effect of Benson's order will not be to step up loans in Ohio, but to bolster corn prices.

An Agriculture Department aide agreed that few Ohio farmers will obtain loans at the new non-complaint support prices.

Noting that corn was selling in Ohio only last week at between $1.16 to $1.18 a bushel, he said it would be more profitable to sell corn at that price on the open market.

On the other hand, many Ohio farmers who have complied with acreage restrictions are expected to avail themselves of the support program.

Their corn support prices range at the higher rates of from $1.38 to $1.45 a bushel. Those figures are considerably higher than the market is expected to go.

State Auditor Modernizing His Office

COLUMBUS (AP) — State Auditor James A. Rhodes today adopted a streamlining program geared to modern business machines, employ training and revised accountability laws.

The state's chief accounting officer said he cleared the decks for his 10-1/2 year program by bringing up to date government audits dating back two decades.

He promised to keep examinations of public offices on a current basis and to speed check writing for payment of state obligations.

The state auditor also is required by statute to keep an accounting of all revenues and expenditures in addition to cash balances of governmental funds.

Continuing to mechanize his operations, Rhodes said that after Jan. 1 more than 100,000 old age pension checks will be processed monthly on business machines in cooperation with the Division of Aid for the Aged.

Direct mailing of checks also will be made to pay bills of those doing business with the state. Unnecessary delays now result, he said, because check mailing is handled by state departments.

Rhodes said such delays now prevent the state from obtaining substantial discounts. He said departments will be encouraged to submit invoices promptly for payment.

Higher Education in Ohio Faces 'Staggering Problem'

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Higher education in Ohio faces staggering problems both in quantity and quality in the next few years, Ohio University President John C. Baker warned the people of the Buckeye State today.

Dr. Baker issued an "open letter" in his capacity as chairman of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School. He called the letter a preliminary report "so that everyone in Ohio could learn directly from commission members the nature and complexity of these problems."

Gov. C. William O'Neill appointed the commission last March 11 and Dr. Baker said the commission hopes to complete its report next April.

"As we studied the staggering prospective growth in enrollments, the criticisms of higher education and the probable future environment of our graduates," Dr. Baker wrote, "we discovered that not numbers, but rather the quality—the excellence of our education and how to improve and preserve it—as the outstanding issue.

"A well-known labor leader wrote to us that, in his opinion, within a period of 15 years high school graduates should know on graduating as much science as college students do today if they are to be ready for automation and the present-day scientific developments. These rapidly increasing qualitative demands or major developments should be recognized as the most serious future problem in higher education."

Dr. Baker pointed to international competition as a factor which will intensify the new emphasis of quality in education. He added:

"As a great power in the free world we must make our education beyond the high school in Ohio and other states of high quality and in dead earnest. We must extend opportunity to all youth who have appropriate abilities and a strong enough desire to work.

"In the future, higher education will probably not be conducted 'as usual,' which to many seems to be a pleasant interlude in 'growing up.' The shadows of possible changes lie about us."

Chief among these changes, the open letter indicated, is the prospect of many more two-year colleges. It added:

"Americans have too long regarded a standard four-year course as the all-or-nothing of education beyond the high school for most young people. There will be real advantages in differentiated programs beyond the high school for students with a variety of interests and abilities. Automation and other revolutionary changes are increasing the development of 'middle level' occupations, many of which require two years of general and special education beyond the high school in university branches, community colleges and technical institutes."

The preliminary report calls for friendly co-operation between high schools and colleges in laying out a course of high school study which will prepare students for college and avoid repetition of high school work in the early college years.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — No sooner had a frantic mother telephoned city police reporting the disappearance of her little girl than the police had a new problem on their hands: To find the parents of a boy found wandering alone on Knoxville streets.

"I forgot to tell you," said the woman, "that Peggy might be mistaken for a boy."

Doing a double take, officers decided that Peggy, indeed, might. The jeans-clad, crew-cut found "boy" turned out to be the "lost" girl.

MRS. TURNEY PONTIUS IN HER GARDEN — Mrs. Pontius is well known as a flower show exhibitor. She grows all her own flowers and is a successful horticulturist. Beside this garden which is in back of her home on Route 56 she and Dr. Goeller, a neighbor have a joint garden of annuals.

Good Neighbors Collaborate On Beautiful Garden of Annuals

Motorists Slow Down To Look at Flowers

Gardeners and flower arrangers are a temperamental lot. They are, in fact, regarded by many to be as temperamental as musicians. But this is not true of two excellent Pickaway County horticulturists, Dr. Joe Goeller, Circleville dentist, and his neighbor at Thatcher Mrs. Turney Pontius.

These two people have a garden which they cultivate jointly. Their friendship has stood the test of this garden collaboration, a project of many years standing. Ordinarily such a project would soon end in fistfuffs but according to Mrs. Goeller, the two tend the garden in complete amity with no show of temperament, lots of joking, considerable good natured rivalry and much hard work.

When the Goellers first came to live in the charming old brick house at Thatcher which adjoined the Pontius farm there was a fence between the two gardens. But in no time at all Joe and Mrs. Pontius were starting an exchange of seeds, slips, flower talk and general advice.

When Mrs. Pontius, who lives well grown, beautiful specimens.

along, decided she had too much garden, Joe Goeller decided he did not have enough space. So he moved over. Now the fence is down. Only a row of rhubarb shows the original boundaries.

It takes a personally conducted tour by either Mrs. Goeller or Mrs. Pontius to figure out what belongs to Joe and what is Mrs. Pontius's. Mrs. Goeller will say, "That row of snap dragons is Joe's" or "no those are Mrs. Pontius's chrysanthemums."

BUT ONE FACT is certain. Traffic along Route 56 invariably slows down at the corner there at Thatcher while motorists gaze with wonder at the brightest, gayest flower garden in the vicinity.

Both Dr. Goeller and Mrs. Pontius have yards of their own which they cultivate separately. These yards are full of interesting—usual plants. Their joint garden for the most part is filled with rows of well known annuals like zinnias and snapdragons.

Both gardeners are blessed with a green thumb. The flowers are

(Mrs. Pontius likes to show flowers and has dozens of blue ribbons to her credit.)

The garden combine has marigolds, tobacco plant, zinnias both large and lilliput, snap dragons, asters, Bells of Ireland, salpiglossis. There are big plantings of gladioli. There are rows of tuberoses, a row of Peruvian daffodils, rows of chrysanthemums.

Dr. Goeller's chief delight is to grow some plant from seed that he reads about in the catalogue. He has been very successful with the new plant introduction, Gloriosa daisies. Many people have tried it without success this year.

According to Dr. Goeller it took his seeds such a long time to germinate he had given up hope when he spied among the weeds a tiny stickery looking plant that he thought at first was a thistle. He got down on his hands and knees and had Mrs. Goeller and Mrs. Pontius help identify the gloriosa daisies while he weeded like mad. Then just as the daisies were coming along nicely the drought hit and the daisies seemed to collapse. Dr. Goeller picked, a lot of them just to give them a drink. He says they perked up in less than a half hour.

Now his daisies are a sight to behold, big bold flowers in colors of mahogany red, yellow and gold.

Mrs. Pontius has continuous bloom in her yard not counting her project with Dr. Goeller. From the time the first crocus blooms until the frost nips her chrysanthemums she has blossoms to show and give away.

SHE HAS tulips, daffodils, sweet william, columbine, iris, roses, lilies, day lilies, gladioli, chrysanthemums an ever changing parade of flowers.

In her back yard she has a pool and what remains of her rock garden which she and her husband planned together. Her blue spruce, known in flower circles for its small delicate cones, was a tiny plant she bought for 10 cents. Now it scars into the sky.

Mrs. Pontius was a charter member of Pickaway Garden Club; she is a past president of both the Kingston Garden Club and the Pickaway Club. She is a member of the exhibit committee of Pickaway Garden Club and a popular exhibitor at flower shows. Dr. Goeller just gardens for the fun of it. He never shows flowers but frequently helps out arrangers who need blossoms for some exhibit. He sends many flowers to St. Joseph's Church of which he is a member.

When Dr. Goeller was asked if his family helped in the garden he loyally said, "Yes", then qualified his statement with "sometimes". He added "Mabel cuts" and Mrs. Goeller laughingly admitted that was her big chore "to cut" and an exceedingly pleasant chore.

She said the doctor worked in the garden every night and on Wednesday afternoons and that he loved flowers. Incidentally flowers are gradually taking precedence over the vegetables. The Goeller vegetables are as well grown as the Goeller flowers.

Dr. Goeller tried out fava beans this year. He planted them late and only managed to get one mess before the drought set in. Service men told him about fava beans. "They are a rectangular bean and good to eat," he explained. He recounted with relish that he had managed at last to plant something that his neighbor, Floyd Bartley, Pickaway County Naturalist, did not recognize on sight.

The Goellers have a nice collection of about 25 roses, some well grown tuberous begonias, some croton plants grown from slips brought from Florida, a white clematis that gives continuous bloom—many plants.

BUT EVEN MORE important than his successful garden is the fun Dr. Goeller has working in the garden.

And the fun the garden collaborators have in their unique garden combine is unprecedented.

Don't Expect Too Much Of Tulips

After All Tulip Bulbs are Annuals

Frequently gardeners suffer under a misapprehension concerning certain garden chores. The difficult way is not always the proper way. There is, for instance, an old and unfounded idea that a gardener is neglecting his duty if he does not dig his tulip bulbs each year after the leaves have withered.

Countless people in this community look at their tulips and noticing they are not as large and long stemmed as the first year believe themselves to be at fault. They say all too often, "I was just too busy to dig my tulip bulbs after the leaves died down." This they say with a hang-dog look and a twinge of conscience.

The idea that tulip bulbs can rest better out of the ground has no foundation. The difficult task of digging bulbs each year or every three years will not help.

According to Mrs. Archibald Walker, well known instructor of Flower Show Schools sponsored by National Council of Garden Clubs Inc. the tulip bulb is an annual bulb.

This means that a tulip bulb has to root, form leaves, flower, set seeds and form another bulb in one year. The tulip that blooms the second year is from a new bulb. Often conditions have not been perfect for the formation of that new bulb so it is far from the perfect specimen that the first year tulip was.

CONTRAST THE WORK of a tulip bulb with that of a perennial bulb like a daffodil. The same daffodil bulb that bloomed the first year will bloom again. In the meantime the new bulblet will have several years to grow and gather strength for the chore of blooming and setting seed.

Remember then that smallness of a second year tulip or a third year tulip need not necessarily be blamed on poor gardening practice. It is rather the fact that a tulip is an annual bulb.

Even in this community conditions may be so perfect for the annual bulb that second, third and fourth year blossoms are equally as handsome as the first year blossoms.

Mrs. Carrie Holderman, Kingston, has had phenomenal success with her tulip plantings over the years. She planted her bulbs in rows in a porous cinder soil in a well drained location. Mrs. Holderman not only succeeded in having large long stemmed tulips year after year, with little sign of deterioration but she gave away big sized bulbs by the basket-load.

Reliable bulb merchants do not guarantee their tulip bulbs for more than one year.

At Kingwood Center, Mansfield, where the tulip display has attracted national attention bulbs (all of them) are replaced annually and old ones destroyed.

We were told that this was at the request of the Dutch bulb growers who provide tulips for Kingwood Center. Kingwood Center would naturally give their vast plantings the best of care. Digging, destroying and replacing bulbs each year is a Herculean task. But Kingwood Center does not want to risk a second year tulip planting.

So do not be disappointed if your tulips are not as beautiful the second or third year. Expect this to happen.

CARLTON B. LEES, an Ohio writer, says in "Flower and Garden Magazine": "For a really good display of tulips don't plan on keeping bulbs forever. Plant a few new bulbs each year and leave them in the ground for three years

Deep Mulch Can Save A Garden

How did your flowers withstand the August Drought?

Gardeners who used a heavy mulch fared considerably better than others during the prolonged August dry spell. In this mid-west climate Ohio gardens frequently take a beating during the hot dry spells that occur all too often during July and August.

Even if you have water on hand it takes time and know-how to do a proper job of watering.

It is very easy, however, to place a heavy covering of mulch around the base of your plants.

Miss Ruth Stout, author of "How to Have a Green Thumb Without an Aching Back", says that mulch time is any time. She writes eloquently on the subject of mulching. She mulches so heavily that she says her whole garden is a compost heap.

then dig and discard them. It is hardly worth the effort required to nurse along old bulbs when second rate flowers are the best you can hope for.

So don't blame poor garden practice if your tulips are second rate. Just remember that you are dealing with an annual bulb.

GARDEN OF EDWIN WALTERS — This garden is simple and restful to the eye. It is a good example of how plant material may be used to bring out the design of a garden. Hundreds of annuals form a bright narrow border around the central panel of grass. Walters has interesting garden ornaments. Lead figures are part of old courthouse fountain that was dismantled and sold for junk.

Walters Garden, Good Example Of Simple Garden Design

Has Figures from Old Courthouse Fountain

Many gardens have been neglected the past 20 years because the "garden ladies" have been so thoroughly preoccupied with the Art of Flower Arrangement. The ladies have been so intent on design in flower arrangement that they have given small thought to their gardens much less to the design of their gardens.

But all this will change. The trend is towards garden design. Give the garden ladies another five years and they will have design in their gardens as well as in their arrangements.

One Circleville garden with good design is that of Edwin Walters, 239 E. Franklin St. The Walters garden is a fitting complement to the century and a quarter old brick house in which Walters lives.

This rear garden is enclosed with a high board fence which insures privacy. Lombardy poplars at the rear east corner add additional privacy. Fine specimens of aged lilacs help enclose the garden which is rectangular in shape and simple in design. It is about 60x150 and actually seems larger.

The Walters garden is one in which plant material is subordinate to the design. A long panel of lawn sweeps from the patio near the house down to the lilacs at the back fence. One gets the feel of great depth and restfulness. Accents to the panel of turf are a weeping willow tree to one side near the fence and a narrow border of bright annuals.

WALTERS gets most of his annuals from seed—then transplants the young seedlings.

One interesting feature of Walters' garden is a small paved area slightly off center of the grass panel. A path leads to this area which is centered with a sun dial base and urn. As Walters, an antique collector says, "It started out to be a sun dial but I ran across this marble urn so I put it here in place of the sun dial". The area is bordered with bright annuals.

Like all collectors Walters seems to be lucky at "running across" curious and beautiful things. On the patio near the house he has placed a wrought iron filled stand with a marble top. This was once an old register in a Waverly hotel. On the stand is a charming garden ornament of lead, a little boy holding a shell up to his mouth.

Walters explained that the ornament was a part of the beautiful old Courthouse fountain here in Circleville.

According to Walters, his brother, the late Barton Walters, discovered one day that the fountain had been sold to a junk dealer. When he hurried to the junk yard the dealer had already dismantled the beautiful old fountain and was selling the lead of which it was made. There were, however, three figures left, all similar. They were figures of children holding shells. The figures may be seen in the Walters garden today.

Try Sowing Gloriosa Daisy Seeds Now

The Gloriosa Daisy, a giant hybrid black-eyed Susan which was introduced to the market last spring, has joined the ranks of annuals that are best planted in the fall. Tests at the Fordhook Farms of the W. A. Burpee Company have shown that seeds planted from September 15 to October 15 will germinate and form small rosettes which live over the winter without protection. Growth begins early the next spring. Seeds sown in late October or November may not come up this fall, but will lie dormant over winter and germinate early next spring.

Edwin Walters says that the fountain was ornate and very typical of its day. It had a central figure, a woman surrounded by figures of children holding shells.

At one time the garden had an ornate summer house. Walters did not rebuild it. He likes simplicity in his garden. There is no vestige of clutter. And while Walters definitely goes in for simplicity, garden-wise that is, nobody is going to convince him that one garden ornament is enough. He has no intention of parting with the two other figures from the old courthouse fountain.

The Rural Mailbox

By George Hamrick
Pickaway County Agent

Dear County Agent:

Last year I had considerable rat damage around my corn crib and farm buildings. Fall weather is arriving and the rats and mice will be coming in for winter shelter and I'm starting to pick corn. I would be very happy if you could give me some help in controlling these pests.

Sincerely,
A Pickaway County Farmer
Dear Farmer:

I realize the problem you have with rat damage. Each rat will eat at least $5 worth of corn and in addition will cause many additional dollars loss from damage caused by filth.

The Pure Food and Drug Law also will condemn your grain if any evidence of rat and mouse damage is shown.

A chemical called "Warfarin" seems to do a very good job of controlling rats or mice. This chemical prevents normal clotting of blood and causes rats and mice to die by internal bleeding. This chemical is commercially available as a concentrate, usually containing .5 per cent warfarin, or in a ready-to-use form containing .025 per cent warfarin.

A single dose of warfarin will not ordinarily kill unless a very large amount is consumed. It is most effective when consumed for about five feedings one or two days apart. It is important that ample quantities of bait be available for two weeks or more since some rats or mice may not eat the bait when first exposed. Warfarin may kill cats, dogs, and other warmblooded animals. To lessen the chance of accidental poisoning, the bait material should be acceptable to rats and mice but unattractive, so far as possible, to humans and domestic animals.

YELLOW CORN-MEAL probably comes closer to meeting the desired requirements for mixing the bait than any other readily available food. Freshly ground corn meal is best. Bread crumbs are satisfactory, by first toasting and then crumbling the bread up. Other than for the safety feature, there is no reason why perishable foods such as ground meat or fish cannot be used except that they must be replaced daily.

For rat control the bait should be placed at or near places where rats are accustomed to feeding. Placements should be made in the barn, corn crib, and possibly other bait placements should be made in other farm buildings.

The bait should be placed in shallow pans, preferably not more than one-half inch high. If the bait is in a bag, nail down end and end to hasten acceptance make a small cross slit in the bag.

I have additional material available on rat control. This material may be secured upon request at the County Extension Office, in the basement of the Post Office.

Very truly,
George Hamrick

Let's All Go Shopping!

By MRS. LEORA SAYRE
Home Economics Agent
Extension Service

Let's all be "G-a-y" as we make our shopping list and then go shopping for grapes, apples, and yellow perch.

Marketing agents from Ohio and adjacent areas have sent information that Concord grapes and McIntosh apples are in trouble everywhere they are grown. The "trouble" is due to a big crop plus the largest processor carry over in the history of all grape and apple products.

Every year the fine apples from the orchards of all parts of this country play an important role in the home cookery of the nation. Fragrance and good flavor, appetite appeal, and economy make apples, baked apples, custard, apples as garnish around a roast pork or duck, apples in rice pudding, apples with the morning sausage, apple stuffing for chicken or chicken stuffing for apples—a nd dozens more dishes. Anyway one tries or uses them will "fatten" cooking reputations.

The laboratory has not yet proved all the reasons why apple pectin function in the digestive tract, but the statement that apples in the diet exert a normalizing effect on digestion is based on the experience of long research.

DENTAL RESEARCHERS are also especially interested in apples in the diet. According to the National Apple Institute, no other fruit has the apple's combination of crisp texture and mouth-stimulating flavor which enable it to perform a cleansing service for the teeth. Apples are chewable—a necessity for dental health in these days of too many soft and refined foods.

Recent news from Howard M. Wells, manager of the Ohio Apple Institute, tells us that the apple harvest is well under way and should be completed by the last week in October. The readily available varieties are Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Staymen Winesap, Delicious, Baldwin and McIntosh.

Rome Beauty is the leading variety in Ohio in terms of numbers of bearing trees and bushels produced. During the past year apple products achieved record popularity reaching a favored position second only to peaches.

Ever since the first apple products were successfully commercially packed, there has been a never-ending search for new and improved varieties of apples for canning. In making apple sauce, two, three and sometimes more different varieties are blended to give the finest flavor and just the right texture.

Now is the time to eat your fill of this appetizing three-meal-a-day fruit. Since pie is one of the most common ways of using apples in baked productions, we recommend the recipe used by Mrs. Doyle Painter, of Circleville for her first place pie in the Home-maker Exhibit Contest at the Pickaway County Fair. Mrs. Painter much prefers the McIntosh Apple for her pie making with the Jonathan as second choice. The recipe she uses is her husband's favorite. For the crust, the standard cut-in method with water and Spry is used. The filling ingredients are as follows: 6 cups of McIntosh Apples, quartered and sliced crosswise; ¾ cup white sugar; 1 tablespoon brown sugar; ¼ teaspoon grated lemon peel; ¼ teaspoon

Following the trail of the vanishing buffalo are these Texas longhorns, remnants of millions.

Famous Old Texas Longhorn Cattle Plod toward Oblivion

By FRANK WATSON
Central Press Association
Correspondent

The Texas Longhorn, that lean and tough bovine famed in songs and stories about the great cattle drives of the Southwest, is following another trail today—that of the vanishing buffalo.

Like the buffalo, the Texas longhorn is disappearing from the scene.

There are now only a few hundred left of this sturdy, ill-tempered breed which deserves an honored niche along with the human heroes in the winning of the Southwest.

Some live in zoos and game refuges, such as the one in Oklahoma's Wichita mountains. There about 300 old-timers soak up the sun like pensioners at a sea-side resort.

Some 60 years ago, these rugged, mean cattle roamed the range in great numbers and cowboys still rounded them up, roped them and put them under the branding iron. Today, however, the "brand" name of longhorn has given way to others called Hereford, polled Angus and Brahman.

Although his future is dim, the Texas longhorn's past was incandescent. Back in the 1890s, hot-blooded Spanish cattle, one of the longhorn's ancestors, were first brought into what is now the state of Texas.

FREQUENTLY, marauding Apaches and Comanches swooped down on these herds and drove them off. In time, these running-wild cattle came up with a reputation for being fearless savages. Many Lone Star ranchers corralled these Spanish renegades and gradually, the longhorn breed came into being.

The longhorn was no beauty, but, like the cowhands who drove it, the longhorn got its job done. A typical longhorn resembled a football coach's dream of an ideal fullback—big-boned, narrow-hipped, beefy and—when aroused—dangerous. A cow weighed in at up to about 1,600 pounds.

Coloring ranged from drab to drabber. From one dagger-pointed tip of his horn to the other, a longhorn sometimes measured eight feet across.

Why did this particular breed survive the hardships of the long trail drives when others couldn't make it? First of all, the longhorns didn't fall prey to the tick that carried Texas fever to other breeds. Then, too, the longhorn seemed suited to lean grazing and far-spaced water holes. The heat of summer and the blue northerners of winter couldn't stop him either.

Texans "grew up" on longhorns. They used this sturdy breed for steaks and longhorn tallow, mixed with blackstrap molasses, topped off the meal as a favorite dessert. From the rawhide, pioneers made their hats, lariats, whips and even their beds.

The end of the Civil war caused a boom in the cattle market. To meet this clamoring, some 10 million head hoofed their way north between 1866 and 1890.

On the trail, riders shouted the cattle on during the day and crooned to them at night. Sometimes these moody critters would take off into the brush or, frightened by a sound in the night, would shake the earth as they pounded off into a dreaded stampede.

However, they covered the dusty trails, crossed deep rivers and made their way to Abilene, Wichita or Dodge City, where eager buyers awaited them.

EVEN THOUGH nature couldn't stop them, man did. When methods of transportation improved, the end of the trail was in sight. Coupled with this were new, improved methods of controlling the pesky tick, allowing other breeds to grow fat.

As time passed, Texas cowmen started to breed their longhorns away. Although they proved too tough for the frontier, the oldtime longhorn was, unfortunately, also tough to eat compared with Herefords, polled Angus and Brahmans. The once mighty longhorn is

4-H CLUB NEWS

Fair visitors saw the results of many months of effort by the youth in Pickaway County on their own individual projects, whether it was an apron or the grand champion lamb. Most 4-H members readily work hard desiring some recognition if they do well, but mainly "To Make the Best Better."

It is fitting that awards be given to those with outstanding projects or participate in special activities. Awards are an incentive to better work. Many thanks go to businessmen and other individuals in the county for supporting the county awards.

Now that the fair is completed, the profit and loss is figured on the projects, and the students are back at school, many local achievement programs will be held. Advisors and parents are being recognized for their efforts as well as the boys and girls.

The Atlanta Silver Thimble Club conducted its local achievement program last week. Nineteen members were honored for completing their projects.

AS A CLIMAX for the youth in Pickaway County, the annual 4-H and FFA barbecue and achievement program is now scheduled for October 26. All club members, parents, and advisors are encouraged to attend this event sponsored by many industries and businessmen in the county. Committee members planning this year's event are: Dudley Carpenter, Russell Palm, and Larry Venable.

"THIS—YOUR LIFE" is the theme of the Five-State Young Men and Women Conference which will include such activities as: "Your opportunities in agriculture and home economics," "You and your neighbor," "You and your date," and "You too can lead singing."

The fee is $8. Anyone interested in attending must contact the extension office this week.

The Pickaway County 4-H Junior Leadership Club held its monthly meeting at Atlanta School with over 30 members present. Plans were made for a float in the Circleville Pumpkin Show. The program included a discussion of the past year's activities with hints for improving the club activities.

The Ray White farm near New Holland was the location of a winter roast and hay ride after the meeting.

Ohio's Party Chiefs Test Winds for '58

Republicans, Democrats Both Book Parleys To Plan for Elections

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—Republicans and Democrats already are testing the political winds for the 1958 elections in Ohio.

Democrats gather in Toledo Thursday for a seven-state regional meeting. It's to map a fund-raising campaign in the hope of regaining top offices.

Top State Chairman Ray C. Bliss opened a series of "grass roots" sessions with Ohio congressional district leaders here Tuesday night in an apparent effort to consolidate support for a state ticket headed by Gov. C. William O'Neill.

The governor entertained state office holders, chairmen and other committee officers from Hancock, Hardin, Seneca, Wyandot, Crawford, Marion and Morrow counties at the mansion. Invited guests included U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, Congressman Jackson E. Betts of Findlay and state legislators from the district.

Similar sessions for the 17th District next Wednesday, the 7th District Oct. 4, and the 5th District Oct. 5 are scheduled. Dates of other district meetings will be announced later.

Reports indicated that efforts will be directed toward ending some local expressions of dissatisfaction over O'Neill's handling of patronage after eight years of Democratic rule in the governor's office.

The Democratic conclave in Toledo is sponsored jointly by the party's national committee and state committees of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia. It continues through Friday.

William L. Coleman, Ohio State chairman, described the party's contemplated fund-raising campaign as the biggest ever attempted by a political party in the year following a presidential election.

The goal of $250,000, he said, is equal to what the DuPont family alone contributed to the Republicans in the 1956 campaign.

"The reason there must be a 1957 'Dollars for Democrats' drive," Coleman explained, "is made crystal clear by the fact it takes thousands of Democrats in Ohio to raise the amount that a single wealthy family gives to the Republican party."

"In Ohio, Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton gave $15,000 to the Republican finance committee in 1956, which is equal to about one-sixth of the $86,120 which the Democratic state executive committee spent in 1956, compared to the $1,967,463 the Republican state finance committee admitted spending in the 1956 campaign."

Republicans from about 30 central and southern Ohio counties will meet in Columbus Oct. 9 for a $50-a-plate fund-raising dinner at which U. S. Sen. William F. Knowland of California will be the main speaker. The banquet, in the youth center at the Ohio State Fairgrounds, is sponsored by the state Republican finance committee.

Republican women also will step into the political spotlight next month. Gov. Harold W. Hadley of Indiana will address the fall conference of the Ohio Federation of Republican women's organizations in Columbus Oct. 10.

Federation president Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, Bricker and O'Neill will be other featured speakers.

O'Neill, who still has about $14,000 in debts from his gubernatorial campaign outstanding, reported Tuesday on accomplishments during the first eight months of his administration.

The report to Republican state senators at the mansion dealt mainly with state finances, mental hospitals, universities, highways and natural resources. A similar report will be made to Republican state representatives Monday.

The governor said he is pleased at the expressions of satisfaction that greeted his reports.

O'Neill asserted "the most noteworthy achievement in the fiscal field" was appropriation of an extra 80 million dollars to increase salaries at expand mental hospitals and state universities without imposing new taxes.

Dirt is flying on the first section of the Cincinnati - Conneaut Freeway, he said, and 477 separate contracts for $107,198,283 worth of highway improvements have been let since March 26. Contracts include 275 miles of new construction, 130 new bridges and 3,072 miles of other improvements.

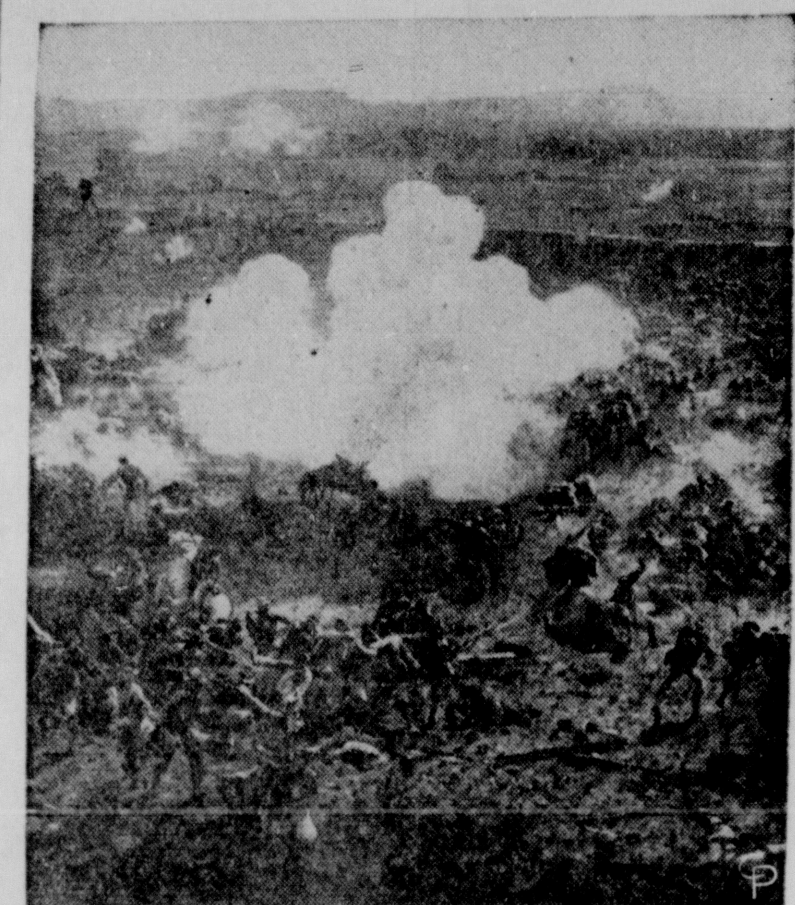

All 800 miles of unpaved rural roads are being improved at the rate of 250 miles a year, he added.

Since February, the governor reported, 11 major projects costing 12 million dollars have been started in a 47 million dollar program to expand mental hospitals. Plans are well along on other mental and correctional institutions, he added.

Appropriations for state universities, he said, made possible a building program of 35 projects costing 324 million dollars.

The Natural Resources Department, the report continued, has high on its list a two million dol-

Gettysburg Still Big Controversy

By OWEN EVENS
Written for Central Press

STILL ANOTHER anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg has passed—the 96th to be exact—yet the controversy over who was to blame for what, during those fateful three days in Pennsylvania long ago, rages on as hotly as ever.

Latest voice heard in the matter is that of Britain's Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery who has reiterated and expanded his earlier comments on a visit to the Civil War battlefield in a strongly worded article in the "American Weekly."

Other military leaders and a great many historians have had their say—pro and con—ever since 1863 and still others will join them in the years to come, for after-the-fact second-guessing is a highly human trait.

A point of general agreement is that Gettysburg was one of the most significant battles of all time and was the turning point of the War Between the States. It cost the South the chance to end the war quickly and victoriously and put the Southern cause on the defensive to which there could be but one inevitable end.

The facts of the Battle of Gettys-

Farmers Supplementing Income With Positions in Industry

By PAUL SHINKMAN
Central Press Association

WASHINGTON — A Kansas congressman, just beginning a second term away from his prize herd of cattle and waving fields of corn, was asked a good question the other day in terms of the old song: "How're You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?"

His answer went straight to the heart of a problem that is getting serious attention in cloak-room talk among senators and congressmen these days.

Bill Avery (Republican, Kansas, 1st District) allowed, with a drawl, as how he had found that if you bring factories and good wages to the farm country, you will have few farm youths trekking off to the big cities.

He clinched his argument with a reminder that, within the past year, three major American manufacturers have been putting millions of dollars into new plants in the Topeka and Wichita areas, where plenty of good farm-trained labor has been released to them as a result of farm mechanization.

This, of course, has not dispelled the anxiety of certain of the nation's older industrial centers. New England, for example, is much more interested in knowing how to keep its cotton mills Down East. Ever since the war there has been a steady trickle of mills to the deep South, where the raw cotton can be delivered to them at great savings in time and shipping costs.

IF YOU ADD to this the reputed conservatism of New England mill owners in adopting new technology, says the Kansas congressman, you have the crux of the standard explanation as to why industry appears to be moving away from the manufacturing areas of New England and in the direction of the farm areas and cotton fields of the Middle West and the deep South.

However, this is not the real explanation in the over-all view prevailing on Capitol Hill. The plain facts are that, calmly and without fanfare, the disintegration of American industry for purposes of safety in war-time has been progressing at an accelerating speed since the early days of the second world war.

A state such as Kansas, with its relatively cheap site acquisitions and its abundant supply of high-producing labor, is a natural choice for the re-location of active and potential defense industries at points of minimal accessibility to attack.

A tire manufacturer, which came into Topeka in 1942, is putting in a $10 million addition. Hundreds of its employees still are farming tracts of land of from 80 to 160 acres within a radius of 40 miles while putting in a 40-hour week at the plant.

Others were released from the NORFOLK, Va. (P)—They are still talking about the big one that got away at Van's Tavern and wondering how it happened. A 50-pound, four-foot dolphin disappeared from its display spot on the tavern wall. In its place someone put a small, sad-looking salt mackerel. The mackerel wasn't treated for display purposes and the management soon got wind of the switch.

STEAL, BUT PLEASE RETURN

ST. VINCENT, Minn. (P)—The St. Vincent village council ran this notice in the New Era, weekly newspaper at nearby Pembina, N. D.:

"To anyone knowing the whereabouts of the ladders from the Vincent Fire Hall: Would appreciate having them returned. Anyone using these ladders should return them to the fire hall each evening so in case of fire they can be readily found."

farms as a result of mechanization. In either case, the farm boy who turns to industry no longer finds himself in a strange new world of machines.

An airplane maker, which moved its West Coast plant to Wichita for security reasons, is another continuously expanding market for the good labor released from stock farms and corn fields.

A chemical outfit is due to let a construction contract for a multi-million dollar plant in Topeka for the manufacture of cellophane film. About 600 employees are scheduled to be at work on the assembly line by 1959.

The story of Kansas is the story of the Middle West states. And the story of the mass redeployment of American labor is rapidly becoming a story for the U. S. Congress.

Aaron's Big Bat May Trouble Mighty Yanks

Hammerin' Hank Hits .415 in 10-Game Stint Including Dozen RBIs

If streak-hitter Hank Aaron can keep his big bat boom! it may be "Katie bar the door!" when the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees, the power clubs of the majors, start swinging in the World Series next week.

Hammerin' Hank, who hits in spurts but remains dangerous any time he comes to the plate, is on a whale of a ride at the moment, batting .415 with four home runs and 12 RBIs in a 10-game streak. It's no coincidence that his streak overlaps the eight-game streak that brought Milwaukee the National League flag.

It was Aaron's two-run homer in the 11th that nailed the pennant in Monday's 4-2 victory over St. Louis, and it was his first major league grand-slam home run that made Tuesday night's 6-1 decision over the second-place Cardinals a cinch.

It was Aaron's 44th home run of the year, third in three days, and kept him in the major league lead while southpaw Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's probable choice for the World Series opener a week from today, won his 21st.

With the pennant decided, the rest of the NL clubs scrambled for the leftovers Tuesday night. Brooklyn's Dodgers, playing what probably was their last game in Ebbets Field, nailed no worse than a share of third with a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh. Cincinnati clinched fourth and stayed in contention for a third-place tie by beating Chicago's Cubs 4-3 and 11-9 in a two-night pair.

Philadelphia's fifth-place Phillies defeated the New York Giants 5-0.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox outlasted Kansas City's Athletics, the club that killed their flag bid Monday, 7-6. Ted Williams' 38th home run gave Boston a 2-1 edge over Washington in the only other game scheduled.

Aaron's big homer came in the first after a pair of singles and a walk off right-hander Sam Jones, who didn't finish the frame.

Spahn cracked the Cards again with a five-hitter, giving up the run in the third when Stan Musial doubled and Del Ennis singled.

Rookie southpaw Danny McDevitt gained his second shutout with a five-single job on the Pirates. He struck out nine for a 7-4 record. Bennie Daniels, a right-hander making his first major league appearance, was the loser.

Bob Thurman was 4-for-7 and drove in four runs for the Redlegs in their sweep while Wally Pott homered in both games. Thurman's single broke a 3-all tie in the first game fourth and his two-run homer triggered a clinching three-run ninth-inning final.

Curt Simmons won his 12th with a four-hitter for the Phils with Hank Sauer and Valmy Thomas splitting the Giants' singles. Bob Bowman's two-run single settled it against rookie Curt Barclay in the first.

Willie Mays, hoisted into the Giant leadoff spot in an effort to gain ground on Musial for the bat title, had three trips and lost a point .333. Musial, 1-for-2, stayed at .340.

Williams' homer came in the fourth for a 2-0 lead over Hal Griggs while Frank Sullivan won his 14th with a five-hitter.

Griggs stopped Williams' string of 16 trips without being retired when Ted grounded out in the first. Williams was 1-for-3, losing a point but still 19 points ahead of Yankee Mickey Mantle for the AL bat crown at .384 to .365.

Earl Battey was 3-for-4 and drove in two runs with a homer as lefty Don Rudolph won his first for the White Sox. Wally Burnette was the loser.

Browns Slim Down To 35-Man Limit

CLEVELAND (AP) — With the Cleveland Browns down to the 35-player limit following Tuesday's cuts, there are an even dozen rookies on the roster.

Since Billy Reynolds and Chet Hanulak are back after two years in service, only 21 players return from the 1956 club.

Of these 21, four have shifted to new positions.

The 12 rookies include John Barton, passer from Ohio State, who will be the No. 2 quarterback when the Browns meet the New York Giants in the season opener here Sunday.

Judge Bruce Tuesday also took under advisement a government charge of $96,223 in tax fraud against the Babbs and their firms after no attorney for Babbs appeared in court.

AP Guesspert Batting .824, Picks More Grid Winners

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Blocks and tackles, bumps and bruises, winners and losers—here's your preview of this weekend's college football games. (Last week's masterminding resulted in 28 correct selections and only six losses for an average of .824.)

Princeton over Rutgers: These two colleges started all this business almost a century ago, so they head the week's selections. Princeton is the Ivy league favorite.

UCLA over Illinois: The Californians have no seniors, Illinois claims it has no halfbacks. It will be played Friday night on the Pacific Coast and that gives UCLA the edge.

Northwestern over Stanford: Bob McKeiver is one of the finest running backs in the Big Ten and Stanford no longer has John Brodie. This is the week's TV game.

Tennessee over Auburn: Could be the Southeastern Conference title will be settled right here. Auburn on the search for a quarter-back.

Pickaway End Out for Good

Jerry Anderson, regular end on Pickaway Twp. High School's six-man football team, will be lost for the remainder of the season. Coach Charlie Baxter announced today.

Coach Baxter said Anderson suffered a compound dislocation of the middle finger on his right hand. The athlete was injured during Saturday night's game with Darby, won by Pickaway.

According to Baxter, the unusual injury came when Anderson tackled an opposing player. The dislocated finger bone reportedly broke the skin, making it a painful injury.

The Pickaway Coach said Eddie Evans probably will replace Anderson at the end position.

Reds Clinch 4th Place in National Loop

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs, with four more games to play, have locked up the National League's fourth place, and still have a mathematical chance to tie the Brooklyn for third.

A twilight doubleheader sweep over the Chicago Cubs guaranteed the No. 4 spot to Cincinnati Tuesday, but at the same time Brooklyn clinched third place with a 2-0 shutout of Pittsburgh.

The Reds' 4-3 opener victory was a pitchers' fight, but the 11-9 nightcap triumph was a real slugfest.

Righthander Hal Jeffcoat, the converted outfielder, went all the way for his 12th victory in the opener, doling out eight hits and not walking a man.

The Reds accumulated single runs in each of the first four innings, and Jeffcoat protested the lead the rest of the way.

In the nightcap, the Reds belted 14 hits off five Chicago hurlers, stacking up three innings of three runs each and two more of one run.

The lead see-sawed back and forth in early innings until the fourth when the Reds wrenched free with three markers for a 7-4 lead. Cincinnati was never headed thereafter.

Bob Thurman was the big hitter in the nightcap, whacking three hits in four at bats, including his 16th homer of the year.

Yank Pitching Savvy Is Cited

Slight Edge Credited To Series Experience

NEW YORK (AP) — World Series experience and better relievers should give the New York Yankees the pitching edge over the Milwaukee Braves in baseball's championship competition opening a week from today in Yankee Stadium.

Of the 10 Braves' pitchers eligible for the battle between the pennant winners, only Warren Spahn has worked in the series. He was 1-1 in 1948. On the other hand, every Yankee hurler except Bob Shantz, Art Ditmar and Al Cioffe has seen action in the post-season classic.

The Yanks' bullpen strength may be an important factor with Bob Grim and Bob Turley the chief firemen. Grim has won 12 games and saved 14 others. Turley has come through with several excellent late-inning performances.

Milwaukee's best relief pitcher in the last three months has been rookie Don McMahon. But neither he nor Gene Conley, who came effectively to the rescue of starting teammates in a few key games, rate with New York's top men.

Managers Stengel and Fred Haney probably will not announce their starting pitchers for the opening game until next Monday.

But here's the way the pitching lineup for the first three games looks at this time:

First game—Spahn (21-10) vs. Whitey Ford (11-4).

Second game—Lew Burdette (16-9) vs. Shantz (11-5).

Third game—Bob Buhl (18-6) vs. Tom Sturdivant (15-6).

There is no denying that Spahn, Burdette and Buhl are three of the best pitchers in the game. Together they have accounted for 53 National League victories, including Spahn's 21st Tuesday night. Sturdivant is the Yanks' top winner.

The Yankees figure to have trouble with Spahn. It was Brooklyn's Johnny Podres, another southpaw, who sent the Bombers down to their only Series defeat during Stengel's regime. Podres beat them twice in 1953 including the final game shutout.

The day reserved for traveling to Milwaukee after next Thursday's second game also should work to the Braves' advantage. It will enable Haney to come back with Spahn in the fourth game if the Braves should be trailing in games and again in the seventh if the Series goes that far.

The Yankees' staff is in its healthiest state of the year. Ford's ailing left arm, which kept him out of the rotation for almost two

Saturday's Six-Man Football Slate Promises Top Contests

Three more Pickaway County six-man football games are scheduled Saturday night at the local fairgrounds.

The schedule calls for Darby to meet Walnut at 6:30 p. m., Amanda battles Pickaway at 7:45 p. m. and Stoutsville tangles with Jackson at 9 p. m.

Oklahoma '11' Retains Rank As Top Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Oklahoma Sooners, whose decisive opening victory over Pittsburgh supported the preseason balloting that nominated them as the nation's No. 1 college football team of 1957, can't lose this week.

After reaching the heights to smash Pitt, regarded as the East's best, 26-0, Oklahoma has an idle Saturday, before meeting its first Big Eight rival, Iowa State, Oct. 5.

Meanwhile, the sports writers who picked Oklahoma first in the preseason Associated Press ranking poll, reiterated their belief by voting the Sooners the No. 1 rank in the first weekly poll after the start of the season.

The results of Saturday's games brought several changes in the preseason ranking order. Of 74 writers participating in this week's poll, 65 voted Oklahoma first; 4 put Michigan State on top; 2 voted for Duke and single first-place votes went to Navy, Minnesota and Iowa.

In the point scoring on the usual 10-9-8 etc. basis, it was Oklahoma 720, Texas A&M 460, Georgia Tech 374 and Michigan State 354. Completing this week's first 10 were Navy, Minnesota, Duke, Tennessee, Oregon State and Michigan.

Ray Narleski Hopes To Chalk 12th Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ray Narleski tries for his 12th victory tonight as the Cleveland Indians oppose the Kansas City Athletics in the opener of a two-game series. His opponent will be Tom Gorman.

The Indians must win both games from the A's to break even with them for the season.

The Tribe moves from here to Chicago for its last three games.

months, is back in shape and he has looked as good as ever in recent starts. He is 4-2 in series action. Larsen's arm miseries also have disappeared and so has Shantz' pulled side muscle.

Legion Baseball Crown Is Costly

CINCINNATI (AP) — It proved costly for Cincinnati's Bentley Post to win an unprecedented fourth National Junior Legion baseball championship this summer.

Coach Joe Hawk, who has piloted teenage baseball teams here for two decades, lost a week's pay as principal of a school in nearby Bridgetown. He missed the week taking the squad to Montana for the championship finals.

Some members of the team who had expected to be members of the football team at Elder High School found they were ruled off the school squad because they didn't return until Sept. 9.

OSU Sharpening Football Defense

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes are sharpening up a defense aimed at stopping Texas Christian University when the teams clash here Saturday.

With a report from scout Clive Rush giving them some idea of TCU's offense, the Bucks Tuesday worked out defensively against enemy formations.

Coach Woody Hayes was particularly pleased with the passing performance of quarterback Frank Kremlas, who now seems assured of the starting assignment. Kremlas tossed for long and short distances during the day's lengthy passing drills.

World Bank Studies Woes Of Financing

Convertibility Said Chief Goal of Global Monetary Organization

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The big hurry to change from a Have-Not to a Have can be just as upsetting to national and international finances as to a family's.

When a family tries to take on too much too fast it runs into cash and credit troubles. When the United States tried to expand its industrial plant and living standards too fast a year or so ago it set off a new inflation. Other nations have been doing the same thing and are reaping the harvest of shaky currencies and inflated prices.

That seems to be the gist of the warnings from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, struggling at meetings today in Washington to ward off the latest in a series of international financial crises.

The fund was set up at the end of World War II with a chief aim of easing the world's way back to currency convertibility. It's still trying, but the chances look even slimmer today than they did a year ago.

The fund says one reason is that too many and too costly national development programs are being tried all at once by the have-not nations. The International Financial setup is feeling the strain.

Convertibility means freedom to exchange one nation's currency or bank credits for another's at market prices without hindrance. That hasn't been done since the war.

Almost all nations have a tight

Permit Issued For New House

Provisions for a new residence was included in the latest list of building permits issued by the city zoning and planning commission.

The new home will be built by Kenneth R. White, 502 Springholow Road. Estimated cost of the project is $18,500.

Other permits granted, intended purposes and estimated costs were:

T. M. Barnes, 121 S. Scioto St., garage, $1,700; Arthur Rooney, 493 Stella Ave., addition, $1,500; Con- nely Watt, 804 Maplewood Ave., shed and fence, $50; Ernest O'Dell, E. Town St., trailer addition, $25.

grip on the exchange of their currencies and on the use of it in foreign trade. Even in the United States, where the dollar is strong and unchallenged, the currency is, managed to the extent that the citizens can't change it into gold, and credit is made easy or tight to keep a rein on the economy.

The current fiscal crisis abroad comes from several things: 1. West Germany is stronger financially and trades with her neighbors and speculators seek to turn British pounds and French francs into German marks. 2. The dollar gap has been troublesome again. Even Germany has a trade deficit with the dollar area, importing more from us than she exports to us.

The U. S. Department of Commerce sees some let-up there. It reports that in the April, May and June quarter, foreign countries gained 70 million dollars in gold and dollar assets through transactions with this country. The rub is that our deficit was due only to oil companies having paid Venezuela some 300 million dollars for oil exploration rights.

That can be small comfort to nations other than Venezuela. Almost all the nations meeting in Washington say convertibility would be a fine thing. Almost none of them is willing to give up

Local Nurse Promoted at McDowell, Ky.

MCDOWELL, KY. — Miss Mary Kathryn Leist, graduate professional nurse, has recently been promoted to a position of greater responsibility in the nursing service of the McDowell Memorial Hospital, according to Harold C. Parks, administrator of the hospital and Miss Mary M. Jerome, director of the nursing service. Miss Leist is now an assistant head nurse.

A native of Pickaway County and a graduate of Circleville High School, Miss Leist received her diploma from Grant Hospital School of Nursing in Columbus and later had special training in obstetrics at Western Reserve University, Cleveland. She joined the nursing staff of McDowell Memorial Hospital in December, 1956 as a team leader.

The 60-bed McDowell Memorial Hospital is one of 10 modern hospitals built and operated by the Miners Memorial Hospital Assn. in coal mining communities of Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia. Each hospital has a staff of highly qualified specialists and the most advanced equipment.

Together, the 10 hospitals have more than 1,000 beds and form a 250-mile hospital network in an area which, until recently, had very limited medical care facilities.

The primary purpose of the hospitals is to provide the best possible medical care for coal miners and their families who are beneficiaries of the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund.

They need artificial controls on their currencies and curbs on their imports if they are to keep their domestic economies regulated. Almost all of them have some regulations.

The struggle against inflated prices is worldwide, as president Eisenhower pointed out to the Washington confab. But with each nation managing its fiscal affairs by its own individual rules, the chances of world agreement are slim—unless a real crisis forces some compromise.

OSU Theater Ticket Sale 'Very Heavy'

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25—Season ticket sales for the 1957-58 season of the Ohio State University theatre are running 20 per cent ahead of sales for a comparable time last year, E. C. Reynolds, business manager of the theatre, reported yesterday.

Mail orders have been "very heavy," he said, as were sales at student booths on the campus Monday, opening day of Orientation Week.

Indications point to a sell-out by Tuesday, Oct. 1, first day of Autumn Quarter classes, according to Reynolds.

Opening production of the theatre, sponsored by Ohio State's speech department, will be Noel Coward's "Private Lives," starting Nov. 5. Also scheduled for presentation are four other major productions, a series of film classics, two playshop productions and an experimental theatre offering.

Season tickets available are based on the seating capacity of the University Hall auditorium, where four of the five major dramas will be presented.

POSTAL ERA ENDS

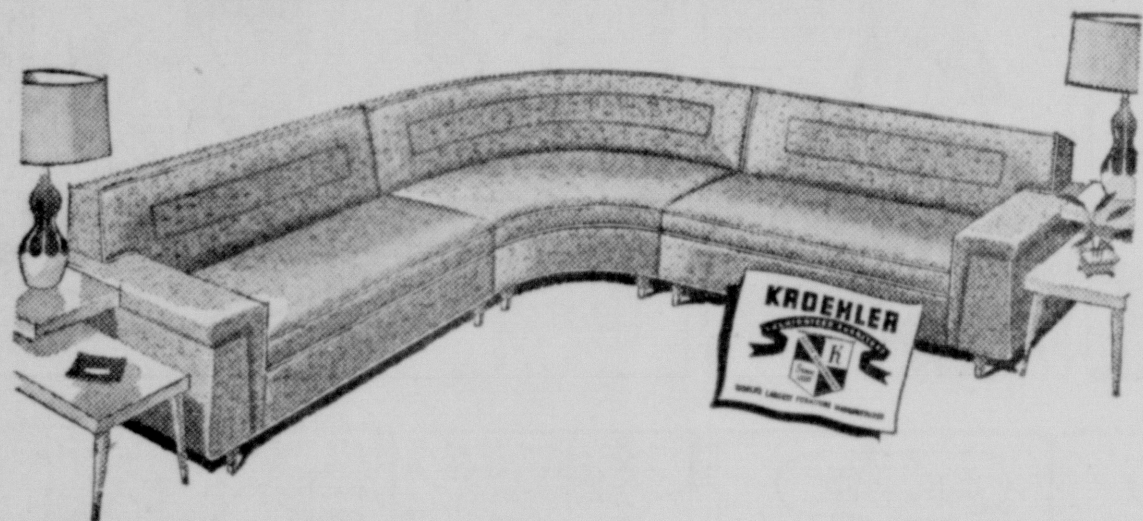

OTTAWA, Ohio (AP)—An era ended in nearby North Creek when Miss Grace Ball retired after 36 years as postmaster. Her homey little post office was closed up forever under a reorganization program. The post office, in a building owned by Miss Ball, had knotty pine paneling, lounge chairs, rugs and curtains and was a favorite gathering place for the villagers.

THE FIFTH, "Guys and Dolls," will be staged in Me-shon Auditorium, which has a much larger seating capacity. Remaining tickets for that single production will be put on sale at a later date.

The season books for all University Theatre offerings, including the popular musical comedy, may be purchased (at $4 each) at the box office or by mail from the Department of Speech, Derby Hall, Ohio State University, Columbus 10. A self-addressed stamped envelope must be enclosed with the check or money order.

The box office in the East Basement of Derby Hall is open from 12:30 to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday.
